Working with your phone.Q: How to find the width of the left and right margin in the edge of the canvas using Javascript? For example, I have a canvas with a width of 500px. I want to find the width of the left and right margin of the image. I've seen some solutions but none work. I've tried to transform these values to percentage as well. I'm using this function: function windowBorder() { var leftTopWidth = Math.round(document.body.clientWidth * 0.2); var rightTopWidth = Math.round(document.body.clientWidth * 0.2); return [leftTopWidth, rightTopWidth]; } Thanks in advance. A: The function returns the width of the top left and right of the window. window.innerWidth returns the actual width of the window object. To calculate the width of the margin, you need to adjust it by the borderWidth of the container. module DeprecationsHelper def deprecation html_options = if status = @post.preview_status.present? { :class => 'deprecated' } { :class => 'current' } end content_tag :span, html_options do content_tag :i, ", :class => 'icon-trash' content_tag :span, :'", :class => 'deprecated-status' @preview_status = status.to_s end end def warning html_options = { :class => 'warning' } content_tag
